

ABSTRACT

A new nonvolatile hybrid memory cell stacked architecture is provided. The cells are comprised of magnetic spin storage elements stacked on top of each other on a silicon substrate, as well as one or two semiconductor FET isolation elements.